Hi there!

Another month gone, another issue and four weeks closer to our Rally. At the time this was prepared we have received 60 entries (quite a few with pillions and kids) from as far away as North Queensland and parts of South Australia, Victoria and New South Wales are well represented and even a few from the A.C.T. (other than our Club's entries). Only 6 entries from our Club so don't forget to send your entry in soon if you have not already done so.

The weather is improving and we are seeing more bikes turn up at the meetings. The next meeting will be a B-B-Q as well as a film night so turn up early and join in the fun. (Details over page). I also encourage the less active Club members to make the effort to come along on the next ride as well, as it should be a worthwhile trip and we would like to see you again.

Also we have had contact with the Ducati Club about the Economy Run to be held in November this year, so check the details elsewhere in this issue and plan to be part of our Club's entry.

Till next time, ride safely,

(CHRIS FULKER)
PRESIDENT.

 PRODUCT REVIEW FORM ***

PRODUCT TYPE: CAST IRON DISCS BRAND: ECCO ENGINEERING

PRICE: Approx $60 per disc (exchange basis)

WHEN/WHERE PURCHASED: June 1981 - Direct from Manufacturer

COMMENTS: Workmanship is very good - discs are bolted to original disc carriers rather than riveted. Braking performance is noticeably improved, especially in the wet even though discs are not drilled. Standard pads were retained.

VALUE FOR MONEY: Yes. A fraction of the cost of genuine parts and superior.

BUY AGAIN OR RECOMMEND: Yes.

RIOORS

We arrived at Phillip Testing Station to find Werner and Ursula there first (as usual). For entertainment we watched a mother screaming at her daughter in an attempt to teach her to drive. Talking to mum we found out it was only her second lesson and her first hour with her mum. She expected a bit much for a second lesson divergently said that encouragement was more effective than yelling!

Meanwhile Ian and Weiner went to their respective homes to get forgotten cameras but were quickly back. Bill, Chris and Richard and Cheryl arrived and we set off in sunny though cool weather which later warmed up. We were heading out to Orroral Crossing in the Gudgenby Nature Reserve. It was a good ride with not much traffic at all.

Our BBQ was a wood fire and the food tasted so much better than on gas or electric. We talked, watched birds and listened to the peaceful silence (that is when our Chris would let us). Chris Fulker had a bird watchers book and we tried to check out the birds we had seen. Richard and Cheryl went early to search for their new home. Did they find it? We'll find out next meeting.

After packing up, changing the child and looking for non-existent garbage bins we decided on a game of frisbee (also provided by Chris F.). This was a new experience for some but soon we all managed to keep it airborne. Ian fared worst as far as fatches went. With a slight breeze against him and bumpy ground bounces he had to ase his catches down the hill many times. Even our Chris got in on the fun like piggy-in-the-middle chasing and tripping on every bump but enjoying himself immensely as we all did.

The fun had to end sooner or later and we packed up and rode over the road to have a look at the caravan park being built. It wasn't very far advanced and it didn't have any garbage bins either. As we had to pass Tharwa and several of us had not been there we had an interesting look at the pottery of Cuppacumbalong and had afternoon tea there as well. From here we all went home after a very enjoyable day.

WOMBAT RALLY

- Jeanette Hahn

We headed off late to the Wombat Rally as Ian discovered both front and rear wheel bearings were shot. With only one set of wheel bearings as a replacement he had to just to luck that he got there and back again. It was a windy trip down to Braidwood where we had a nice lunch at "The Mill" (I think that was the name of it). From Braidwood to the campsite was 23kms, most of it dirt. The sand made it interesting for me at times but then I don't like sand — or dirt for that matter. The river crossing into the campsite was negotiated quite easily — it was a cemented causeway covered by the waters of the Shoalhaven River.

Collected badges, decided against the Wombat Soup and headed off to find a campsite. More sand, this time with people just waiting and watching for someone to provide the entertainment. Well luckily it wasn't me and Ian had no real worries in the sidecar though he did get bogged when he got too close to the deep sand. Needless to say we set up camp nearby. Ursula and Werner and later Bob and Adam turned up but only to pick up badges, distribute our rally entry forms and go home to sleep comfortably in warm beds. It was a clear cold night and we retired early. Ian had brought a thermometer with him and the early morning temperature was -8 degrees.

We weren't leaving until after lunchtime so we book our time packing. Chris had reat time building sandcastles and enjoying the feel of the sand in his toes. We managed to get out of the sand and had a really good trip home.
